

The top of the page features a background image of the Philadelphia skyline, including the Comcast Center and the Independence Hall dome. Overlaid on the left is the Siemens logo, which consists of the word "SIEMENS" in a bold, teal, sans-serif font, with the tagline "Ingenuity for life" in a black, cursive script font below it.

SIEMENS

Ingenuity for life

Siemens Outreach Event & Career Forum

June 7, 2017

4pm to 6pm

Community College of Philadelphia: Winnet Student Life Building

1300 Spring Garden Street

Philadelphia, PA 19130

Siemens is a multicultural organization with operations in nearly every country around the world. We promote diversity at all levels of our business, and are increasingly looking to establish relationships with businesses recognized as small or diverse.

Siemens is a provider of Energy Service Performance Contracts (ESPC) in the Federal Government, State Government, Municipal Government, and private entity markets. We are committed to increasing minority, women-owned, disabled, veteran-owned, and small business participation in our projects as well as contributing to the growth of the workforce in the City of Philadelphia.

On Wednesday, June 7, Siemens will host a small business outreach event at the Community College of Philadelphia in the Winnet Student Life building. We are giving businesses owned by minorities, women, the disabled and veterans the opportunity to learn about: Siemens, the ESPC industry and upcoming project opportunities where these organizations may have the opportunity to provide Siemens with products or services. Attendees from established businesses can meet and interact with members of the Siemens procurement team and learn more about becoming a Siemens' approved supplier.

Siemens recognizes a vital component of helping small or diverse businesses succeed is growing the number of qualified candidates available for employment within the regional workforce. In an effort to educate job seekers on new career opportunities and to introduce potential employees to potential employers, the day's event will include a career forum and networking. Attendees will hear from guest speakers representing various types of companies that provide products or services on ESPC projects. Guest speakers will give a general background on their business, review the various types of positions within their business, as well as review the skills, training and levels of education required for those positions.

Immediately following the speaker presentations, a networking session will be held where existing businesses can interact with Siemens' procurement team. Individuals seeking new career opportunities can learn about open positions within the various companies or seek advice on how to prepare for future career opportunities.

Who Should Attend

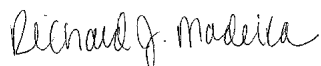

Organizations providing products or services related to energy, construction or infrastructure and are presently certified as small or diverse businesses by agencies such as the City of Philadelphia, SEPTA, or Pennsylvania Department of General Services.

Organizations focused on workforce development in the Philadelphia region.

Individuals looking to learn about career opportunities in the Philadelphia region.

In order to accommodate space and security requirements at CCP, pre-registration is highly encouraged.

Contact I-Wah Chang: i-wah.chang@siemens.com (847) 941-5286

A handwritten signature in black ink that reads "Richard J. Madeira".

Richard J. Madeira

Richard J. Madeira
BPS, ASM Mid-Atlantic Region

Siemens Industry, Inc.

Building Technologies.

1450 Union Meeting Road
Blue Bell, PA 19422

Tel: (215) 654-8040
Fax: (215) 654-8041